you are terrible
 guy. You deserve the best of everything. Lots of luck in the future with everything you do. I know with you having Prez we'll have a great Prom.
 & a great year. Well meet ya. id our last year. So lets make it the best one anyone's ever seen. We can come live the what & create a class there's ever been.
 I hope you do well when you get in that great big class. I would in two years. I know you will cause you'll get a good reaction upon shoulder's. Just keep it that way ok.
 Always,

~~I~~ I only want you to be happy. You deserve the best! And I know you'll set out to do anything you want & succeed at it. I really miss not seeing you guys in the hall. With you & the gang. I really miss you all graduate. I just wouldn't I want us all to keep in touch after time. I know a lot of friends don't keep in feel right not keeping in touch after time. I know enough. I know touch after Graduation. But I just don't think they try hard enough. I know we'll all find & make new friends when we're out in the real world, but no-one can take the place of old friends. Especially the special ones like you. I want you to know I'll always be here for ya whenever you need an ear or a shoulder. I'll do my best to help out. Don't ever hesitate to come to me, when you need someone. I'll even be here for ya when I'm an old

I say to such a special friend? We've had a lot of good times; haunted housing work, Douglas, Richard Marx, etc... etc... I want to thank you for being such a good friend. You've always been there for me in the good times and in the bad. You're like the little brother I never had. You possess strong qualities that will lead you anywhere in life.

Remember at the 4th of July thing at WSU when we were conducting to the music, and at the lock-in at work... on "Figaro Figaro", and "Stick a banana up your asshole" I'll never forget those times. I could go on and on.

Those times. I'm sure we'll have many more good times to come, aint that right, Tyson? We're all going to have to go on Douglas soon. Spit watermelon seeds at the honkeys. I think some of our best times were on Douglas. Remember when I drove the cab on Douglas that night, and those black guys go. "There's that was a riot!!"

White women in that there cardiac! I really hope things work out between you and I know you'll set

No Plain Birds

Have you ever heard the saying "You can't go home again?" It probably does not make sense at first, but the more you examine it, the more sense it does make. It means that nothing ever stays the same. You can't even enter a room twice in one day without some changes taking place.

High school is another good example of this. It only happens once in a life-time. It may seem like you come back to the same place every year for four years, but actually you come to a different place every day. This year was no exception. There were many changes — in the school itself, in classes, but most of all, in each other. We laughed together and cried together. We made new friends while we parted with others. We struggled through the trying times and we enjoyed the quiet, peaceful times. When friends were in need, we took them under our wings. We also became more responsible. We realized that to fight the war against drunk driving we would have to take the matter into our own hands, which we did by forming a SADD chapter.

For some of us this was no ordinary year. The freshman found how different, and difficult high school really was. For some, it was quite frightening, and a little aggravating, being called names such as "stupid freshmen," while others found it to be an exciting new experience. The sophomores were glad that they had gotten through their freshman year, but realized that next year would bring a lot of hard work, so they began to plan ahead by collecting money and ideas for their prom and college.

For the juniors, it was endless work; decision making and headaches. They had a prom to plan and tests to take besides deciding which road to take next year after graduation.

And finally, after four years of waiting, working and gaining much wisdom from teachers, parents, and friends, the seniors were ready to leave the nest. As they looked back, they saw how fast four years of high school went, and how they were going to miss each other. But they will never forget those memorable years. They will always treasure them. And as we all move on through life, we will show to others, that we are no plain birds.

The football homecoming crowd cheered as the Owls defeated the Blues-tem Lions, 42-8, on September 25. The night was filled with excitement and anticipation as King Pat Klausmeyer crowned Lisa Smith the new Homecoming Queen. The attendants were joined by the alumni of the past eighteen years.

After the game, students danced the night away with music provided by KEYN. The theme "In My Dreams" set the mood for an enjoyable evening.

Each class showed spirit throughout the week with Monday set aside as hat, sweat, sucker, and shade day. The "Old West" was still alive with Cowboy and Indian day on Tuesday. The halls were full of nerds on Wednesday and it was back to the past with poodle skirts, pony tails, and leather jackets dating back to the 50's. Friday ended the week with the traditional black and gold day.

The Booster Club showed their support Tuesday night by holding the annual student olympics. Other spirit events included a bon fire held on Thursday night for the football players. Friday during school there was a parade and a pep rally. As the Juniors won the float competition, the Sophomores, Seniors, and Freshmen followed by displaying their own class spirit.

Homecoming 1987 holds many special memories with the help from everyone who organized it and made it an enjoyable success for all.

What's In

"Hey Willie!" "I kill me!" These quotes from the obnoxious TV character ALF filled the hallways as many students tried to imitate ALF's rude and crude personality.

Known as the "party animal," the black-eyed dog, Spuds MacKenzie, was seen on T-shirts, shoes, and watches.

"I Heard It Through The Grapevine" became a popular song, due to the California Raisins, who formed as a rock group that sang and danced. If you went for hard rock then Motely Crue and Def Leppard were more your style.

Acid and stone washed jeans were a new fad for everyone. The guys went for the Levi 501 jeans, while the girls enjoyed mini and bubble skirts. Girls found spiral perms to be a nice, easy hairstyle, while the boys thought of different ways to shave their heads.

Going beyond their personal looks and lives, students became aware of broader issues, such as the AIDS epidemic, the Iran-Contra hearings, and the drunk driving issue. After hearing about so many drunk driving accidents, and seeing so many lives lost or ruined, some students decided that something must be done to try to prevent this. Students were proud to announce the formation of a SADD chapter. These students went out of their way to protect everyone from becoming a drunk driving victim. The benefits of their efforts should be seen for years to come.

So, as you can see, this was no plain year.

"Monday night, 7:00 was the time to see Alf in action."

The "Queen" and her Royalty

Three senior girls were chosen, but only one would become basketball homecoming queen for 1988. Belinda Ast, Sherice Engram, and Tracy Wingert were the three seniors who awaited the answer of who would become the new queen. As Paul Wells tore open the envelope, and walked over to the three girls, he greeted Queen Belinda with a kiss.

Following the victory over South Barber, the students were ready to "Jam" at the Sweetheart Dance. The dance was sponsored by the Stuco and the Garden Plain Booster Club members. Students enjoyed the wide variety of music, with Darby Brown, the disc jockey for the evening.

With the arrival of Father Ken Melaragno, the CYO was reorganized and new sponsors took over. Ed and Jenny Funke, Chris and Denise Heimerman, and Lori Heimerman made this year very enjoyable and worthwhile, putting in a lot of time and hard work organizing fund raising events and other activities.

The year began with the first meeting in August at Lake Afton. New members were brought in, increasing the membership to 75 in September. The organization started planning the first car wash of the year with money raised going to various missions.

The October meeting was a Halloween hay rack ride into the country and a marshmallow roast. In November, the St. Anthony's CYO had their dance the Sunday after Thanksgiving. As the Christmas season drew near, the CYO spent their December meeting making gifts for the old Age Home.

Before long, it was January already, and it was time to plan the first family volleyball tournament. This was a great success with 12 families participating.

The February meeting included planning for the Chicken Noodle Dinner and giving out candy to the elderly of Garden Plain for Valentine's Day. In March, the meeting called out for a basketball tournament. Also, the CYO had five booths at the Spring Festival.

As the year came to a close, the April meeting was spent dying eggs and handing out candy to the kids for Easter. Another car wash was also held. The CYO ended the year with a June trip to Silver Dollar City.

4-H IS 4-U

4-H offers an exciting alternative for students interested in things other than sports. Sheep showing, gardening, ceramics, horses and woodworking are just a few alternatives students can enjoy. The summer months keep 4-H's very busy, as they spend a lot of time preparing for county fairs, at the beginning of summer. 4-H's organize the things necessary for their projects. For instance, those interested in sheep showing have to get the lamb they want and begin working with it. Most 4-H's who've chosen horses spend hours training them. But sometimes all the hard-work pays off with a purple ribbon.

Will the monthly meeting of the Quail Valley 4-H Club please come to order?

All dressed up and ready for the show.

After Hours

Valessa Drum rollin' in the dough at Talarico's.

There are many students who have jobs. Not only do they have to work long hours, but also, they have to keep up with their schoolwork, grades, and sports.

Many students work because they need money. Some of them use this money to buy clothes, make payments on cars, or just to entertain themselves on weekends. Others are saving it for college.

The majority of the students work at restaurants or fast-food places. Many of them didn't want to admit it, but they actually enjoy what they do.

A lot of sacrifices have to be made to hold down a job and go to school, such things as getting home early on weekends, sometimes working weekends, and having less free time to do whatever they wish.

Most students agree that they have learned many things from their jobs and that makes it all worthwhile.

After months of planning and earning money, the Junior Class was finally ready to "Light Up The Night" for the Seniors. The Junior-Senior Prom was held on April 16 at the Indian Center. The evening began at 6:00 with pictures being taken and students walking along the river. The meal began shortly after Tonya Hansen delivered the Welcome speech. Kim Smarsh read a poem dedicated to the Seniors, written by Vicki Mourning, and Belinda Ast provided the response. Paul Wells led everyone in prayer. After the meal, students and faculty were entertained by singer Shawn Michaels. Brian Klein and John Dandurand presented the prophecies to the Seniors, and Jason Becker and Rod Thimesch read the Senior Wills. The rest of the evening was spent dancing to the music of KKRD. The evening was very enjoyable and memorable.

Graduation

Thirteen years of school came to a close as thirty-three seniors received diplomas on May 15, 1988.

We only had one chance to make our high school memories but no matter how good or bad they seemed they would last a lifetime. Throughout our school years we met many new and different people. Secrets were shared with our best friends and as we began to grow closer to some friends we drifted away from others.

The Seniors had made many special friends and shared many happy memories with them. Graduation time brought with it the time to say good-byes, some only for awhile, some forever. They were closing the doors to one life and opening doors to a new one. Even though they were moving on and going their separate ways, they would never forget their memories of the past thirteen years.

Earlier this year, the band went to the Kansas State Fair, performed in a parade, and received a I rating. Attending all the home football games, the band combined a halftime performance with the Junior High Band and the Drill Team. During the Christmas season, they performed at Towne West and at a Winter concert. Also, the band performed at home basketball games and the State Tournament in Topeka. A combined concert with the Andale Band was held at Garden Plain this year. Overall, the high school band had an exciting and successful year.

They also performed in the spring concert and attended the League and State Music Festival and received a II rating at both contests. The Chorus had an enjoyable and fun year with Mr. Oliphant.

The Chorus awaits attentively for Mr. Oliphant to conduct them through another song.

This year the Red Cross Club had a special goal to work for — the Outstanding Service Award. The club performed several different tasks throughout the year to meet this goal. The first task was the formation of four service groups. One for the school, one for the community, one for the world and one to take care of Red Cross activities. Then, for the first time ever, the club began to do much more than just the Bloodmobile.

As a result of the serial rapes which occurred at the beginning of the year, the school service group presented a program on attacks and self-defense. The group was also in charge of posting signs notifying students of upcoming Red Cross events.

The community service group helped raise money for Anthony Stiles, who needed a new liver. The group also helped with the Operation Holiday, which is a project that helps the poor by collecting canned foods.

To finish the year off, the Red Cross group sponsored the annual Bloodmobile, during which 73 units of blood were donated.

The Art Club

As the Art Club was reorganized this year, members were busy with many different tasks. They have raised money by face painting at Halloween, Basketball Homecoming, and the State Tournament, trying to increase the school's spirit. Also, they painted the sets for this year's school play. As a first year Art Club sponsor, Mrs. Herl said,

"The club members have been a lot of fun to work with. Most of the them have worked really hard to get the club back on it's feet again."

They also attended a program of Flamenco Dancers from Spain, had a Fiesta de Navidad with two plays performed by the second year students and a piñata. The club began selling candy to raise money for a trip to Mexico in the summer of '89.

There are many responsibilities that go with cheerleading. Cheerleaders are expected to arrive early at games, attend all practices, help organize pep rallies, and quickly come up with cheers for time-outs during games.

In addition to extra time spent during the school year, cheerleaders are expected to attend camp each summer. Last summer they attended Universal Cheerleading Association at Emporia State University. At this camp they learned new cheers, stunts, and chants. They also learned how to get along as a squad.

With all of these responsibilities, why would anyone want to be a cheerleader? Squad members have enjoyed attending camps, the bus rides to games, and of course, the cheering itself. In addition to the immediate rewards of cheerleading, head cheerleader Shasta Steckline said it has long-range benefits as well. "It builds self confidence," she explained. "It's a good experience and it brings you closer to people."

1987-88 Drill Team Squad

Angela Schomacker, Senior

Donjia Willey Capt., Takes Control!

The Drill Team squad participated in many different activities throughout the year. They started the year by marching with the band in the Kansas State Fair Parade.

During football season they performed to music provided by the band. On December twelfth they made their third appearance at a Wichita Wings game. The Home School Organization called on the squads time and talents during a Christmas Arts fair in which they assisted children in making crafts. In January they held their Second Annual Mini Drill Team Clinic.

When asked what they liked to do best throughout the year members commented that "working with the cheerleaders to prepare for pep rallies was fun."

The Garden Plain chapter of the National Honor Society held its spring induction exercises on March 21, 1988. The new members were chosen by a board of faculty members on the basis of their high qualities of character, scholarship, leadership, and service.

To become a member of the National Honor Society, each student must have held a 3.4 grade point average the previous year and has to maintain his high scholastic standing to remain in the club. The members must also possess a strong character, showing loyalty to both the society and the school. Exhibiting their leadership, the students must promote all school activities and clubs.

Each year every National Honor Society chapter must do a group service project to maintain its charter as well as individual projects by each student to retain his membership. After several meetings the idea to clean up Garden Plain won the vote. The members divided into groups and spent two days picking up trash around the city for their group project. Throughout the year the individual members did volunteer work such as tutoring and working at the Red Cross bloodmobile for their service work. Their help was greatly appreciated.

These model students have given unsparingly their time and energy toward their school and their education. They have opened their own doors to a successful future.

A busy season of scholastic competition provided excitement and challenge for Garden Plain students who participated in scholars' bowls during the 1987-88 school year. The schedule included meets at Arkansas City and Belle Plaine with the regional tournament being held at Pratt-Skyline. In January our team traveled to Butler County Community College, ElDorado, for Super Saturday activities and a chance to compete for an opportunity to play in KAKE-TV High Q.

Highlights of the season included

ed hosting our own invitational tournament, placing first in that competition, and sending two teams to Andale to compete in a novice tournament to give our next generation of scholars' bowl participants a taste of the action.

CHESS CLUB

The Garden Plain Chess Club met throughout the year to improve its chess skills. They competed in two invitational tournaments - one at Newton High School and one at Campus High School. The following students participated in at least one of these tournaments: Robert Garr, Greg Meyer, Pat Meyer, Tami Morris, Roger Morris, Marc Puetz, Todd Puetz, Kelly Stuhlsatz, and Brian Thimmesch. Out of this experience six of the top ranked players were chosen to represent G.P. at the State Chess Tournament. The following students qualified: Greg Meyer, Pat Meyer, Tami Morris, Marc Puetz, Todd Puetz, and Kelly Stuhlsatz. This team won for the school a 2nd place state ranking in class 1A-4A.

Student Council

Student Council officers started their work long before the 1987-88 school year started. In July they attended Student Council Workshop at Emporia State University. At this camp they were given the opportunity to learn, share, and experience many new and exciting events. They also came to realize that students play the biggest part in bringing out the best in the school.

Stuco members planned many activities throughout the school year, some of which included guest speakers, Stuco Olympics, movies, and the annual Tug-o-War.

"Unless I pass Mrs. Papke's class, I'll still be in school at the age of 25."

Most Juniors look forward to their Senior year. This class was no exception. Although the year seemed to go by fast for them. In addition to keeping up with their busy and hectic schedules, they kept busy selling magazines and trying to get Prom organized. Many Juniors followed the tradition of carrying a heavy load with lots of "book classes" so they could slack off their Senior year.

Many class members began thinking about their future careers and schooling. But they knew if they could survive this crazy year they would be ready for their Senior year.

What's so great about being a sophomore?

When asked this question, the sophomores realized that there was more than they had first imagined. Most of them are finishing up their required courses, while others have a long way to go. Some are glad to have classes with upperclassmen, and some aren't. Almost everyone agreed that it's great to be one year closer to being a senior.

The Freshmen started their first year of high school by getting adjusted to the busy high school life. Along with the new classes and new faces came new activities. School dances, athletic games, and other social events filled the newcomers calendars. But starting high school wasn't all glamour. The Freshmen made a big drop from being head of the Junior High to being the bottom rung of the ladder in high school. But as Glenda Miller thought, "The year went fast," and with its end came a step up the ladder.

A Day In The Life . . . Classified Staff

Karen Rosenhagen, Peggy Goetz

A day in the life of a secretary begins with greetings to students in the hall or office and they help wherever it is needed. Peggy Goetz has been a part of the staff for 19 years, and has enjoyed every moment, with the exception of a few embarrassing moments. Karen has also had some embarrassing moments in her 4 years as secretary. She says she has enjoyed her time here. Both women share a dislike for typing report cards, but they say being around the kids, makes it all worthwhile.

You've heard the expression, "simple as pie." Well, it's not all fun and games for the school cooks. These women usually arrive at 6:25 a.m. to start preparing the food. The cooks' favorite foods to make are: cherry cobbler, chicken, chef salads, jello, and soup. They say the students favorite meals are: Lasagne, hotdogs, and mashed potatoes. The cooks really enjoy being around the kids on a day-to-day basis. After cleaning the kitchen, cooks end their day at 2:00 p.m. After work they all go home to repeat the same routine for their own families.

Driving a bus might seem like the kind of job anyone could handle. But, it takes a special training to handle 30 students in a moving vehicle. In order to be employed as a bus-driver, one must have a valid class A driver's license and pass a physical exam every 2 years. Drivers must also complete a Red Cross First-Aid course and a National Safety Council Defensive driving course every 3 years. Mileage for the bus routes totals 454 miles per day, but although the mileage may add up in a hurry, at the end of the road, the bus drivers feel it is rewarding, enjoyable, and worth the time spent with the kids.

A school day for most students starts at 8:10 a.m. But not for a custodian or janitor. They usually arrive at 6:00 a.m. to start their daily tasks which can be anywhere from climbing on a building to maintaining bathrooms. They all enjoy being around the kids, and like the unity of a small school such as ours. The janitors say their least favorite task of the day is getting up in the morning. "They do a lot of work for the school," said Stephanie Lange, who worked with the janitors this summer. Most students don't realize that while they are enjoying the summer, a janitor's work carries on.

Aggressive. Reckless. That's how Coach Schomaker described the football team. The team lived up to these descriptions, accomplishing many goals throughout the season. Schomaker felt the season was a successful one, especially in what the boys accomplished for themselves. "They did everything we asked them to do," he said. He was pleased with the efforts of everyone on the team. "We stress team performance and try to get the most out of each person." When asked which game was the team's greatest victory, he replied, "All victories are great, but Remington is the one that stood out." The Owls ended the season with five wins and four losses.

It was a season of great learning for the Junior Varsity team. The small squad played only five 8-man games with a final record of 2-3. The team was very young, consisting mostly of freshmen and sophomores. Coach Brown felt the season was a good experience for the guys, and he was optimistic about future contributions to the Varsity squad.

Sub-State Champions

"Inconsistent" was the term Coach Houle used to describe the Volleyball team, which was made up of nine seniors and three juniors. The squad's ending seasonal record was 18-13 and they were league champs.

The entire team showed a great deal of effort and leadership. Houle said they worked really hard through the season but they couldn't quite put forth the extra effort needed to make it through the State Championship. Houle said the girls worked well together. "It takes a team to win and it takes a team to lose. We did it together."

Other than practicing and working on specific skills, Coach Houle and the team prepared themselves mentally for each match according to which team they would be playing.

The team added new skills in their playing such as fakes, back row and middle spiking and tantom.

It was very exciting for Coach Houle to take her first team to State. She was proud of the girls and had lots of fun. "They're a good group to work with; they'll be hard to replace."

The Junior Varsity girls worked hard to achieve a successful season. Under Coach Stephanie Baker, with good cohesive team work, the volleyball squad finished with an overall score of 18 wins, 3 losses. The squad consisted of six juniors and six sophomores.

Leadership and experience were two elements that Baker used to pull the girls through the season. Baker was pleased with the girls' performance and the end results of the season. The girls did their best and they showed tremendous ability in games and practice, Baker said.

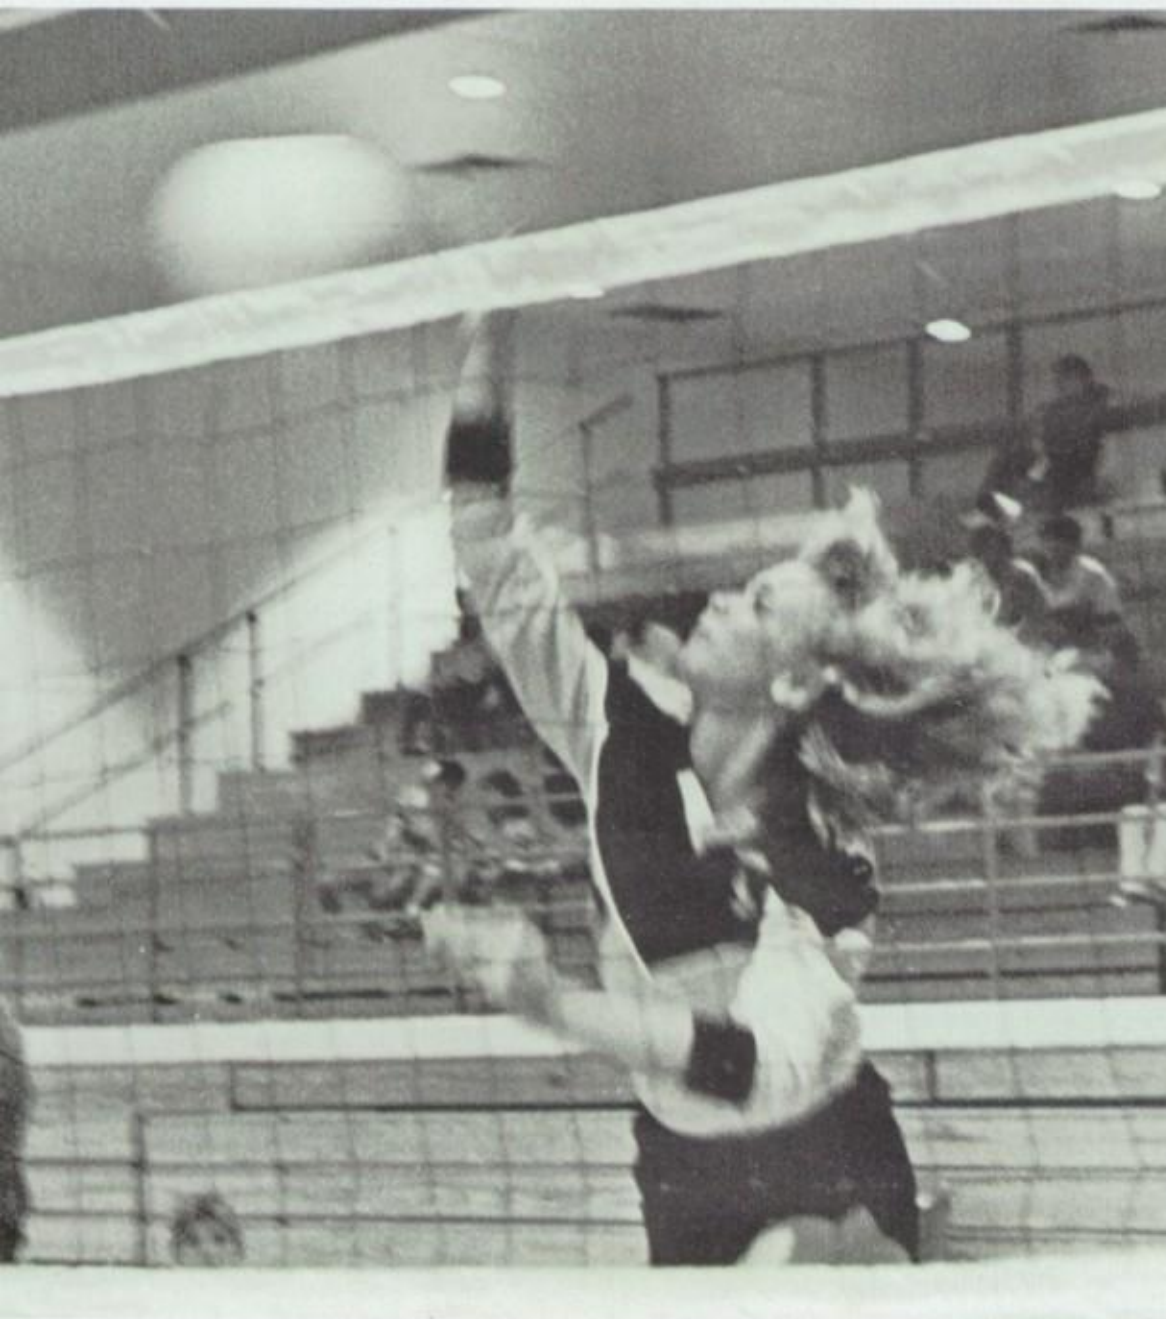

The freshman squad consisted of 6 girls. Coach Cook described her team as determined and enthusiastic.

Although the team lacked in numbers, it didn't lack in motivation. Cook said the team worked well together and had very positive attitudes.

"As game time rolled around the girls had pride in their hearts and were ready for a real challenge," Cook said. "The girls were tough and aggressive on the court."

Cross Country

Even though the cross country team was small, it's accomplishments were big. The two team members, Kelly Edison and Steven Sandoval medaled at six out of seven of the meets they attended. At the freshman-sophomore league meet at Medicine Lodge, Kelly placed fifth with a time of 11:54 and Steven placed ninth with a time of 12:36. Kelly's time at the meet earned him a letter. "They had a very good year for being freshman," commented Coach Lippoldt.

Paul LaBrue enjoys tennis

Tennis

As one of the outside sports Tennis is enjoyed very much by two of our students. Todd Chapple and Paul LaBrue, both have set high goals for themselves this year. As the year started out Todd's main goal was to be the state's undefeated champ. For Paul's first year in the sport he hoped to accomplish dreams most students have wanted to accomplish in three years.

Because tennis is an outside sport these students have to practice on their own time, an average of one to two hours a night.

They put in a lot of hard work and dedication this year, hoping to achieve their goals.

Phil Miller rides a bareback horse

Rodeo

Rodeoing is not thought of by most people as a real sport. Some think of it as more of a hobby. Many people aren't aware of all the hours that barrel racers have to spend on their barrel horses and the aches and pains rough stock riders endure to pump up their muscles and get psyched up for an eight second ride.

Rodeoing has been a big part of the lives of three students: Phil Miller, Karla Appelman, and Glenda Miller. As these students competed in the High School Rodeo Association. During the year they found out that there were many nights of long practice involved. Rodeo is a sport which takes place outside of school. Students have to maintain a passing grade point average just as they do in any other High School sport.

Even though the sport involves so much of their time, the students say that it has its rewards.

Most people don't stop to consider all of those practice calves and steers that are being roped just for that one important second that could let them take the check home.

Karla Appelman and Glenda Miller show off their pride for the sport.

Varsity Boys Win League

Ending the season with a 16-5 record, the Owls made many great accomplishments. They were undefeated at home during the regular season and suffered most of their losses to bigger class schools.

A great accomplishment for the Owls was finishing third at the Halstead Tournament. The highlight of the season was capturing the Central Plains League Title.

Several of the Owls received individual honors. Paul LaBrue was named All-League first team and also to the second team at State. Other honors included, Andy Meyer and Rod Thimesch to All-League second team. While Brian Klein received honorable mention.

The Junior Varsity boys finished the year with a record of 15-1. The only loss suffered was to Fairfield, by one point.

Many of the younger players got a lot of valuable playing time and gained much experience. The team suffered no losses in league competition which makes the future look bright for the Owls.

"We got off to a slow start," commented Freshmen Coach Greg Rosenhagen. After picking up a few victories, the team began to pull together and improve game by game enabling them to finish the season with a record of 6 and 8.

The highlight of the season was a second place finish at the Cheney Freshmen Tournament.

Rosenhagen said, in retrospect, "Effort was never lacking as everyone played an equal part in the teams' success."

Varsity Girls

Achieving goals was the name of the game for the lady owl's basketball team this year. Finishing out the season with an overall record of 14-9, head coach Kelly Houle commented that there were many highlights during the year. Beating Medicine Lodge, becoming League Co-Champs, and winning Sub-State were among the team's many accomplishments.

There were some outstanding individual accomplishments as well as those of the entire team. Lisa Puetz and Becky Jiskra were named All League First Team, Fawna Brost made All League Second Team, and Angela Schomacker received Honorable Mention for her efforts.

SENIORS: Lisa Smith, Belinda Ast, Angela Schomacker, Sherice Engram, Sara Jaax.

Junior Varsity

Under first year coach Doug Dungan, the Junior Varsity girls' basketball team enjoyed a successful season, finishing with an 11-3 record — 6-0 at home and 5-3 on the road.

The team traveled to Chaparral for a tournament, winning against Wellington, and losing to Chaparral.

The girls' enthusiasm and effort leaves the team with promising prospects for the next year.

The Freshman girls had a very successful season this year, with a final record of 10-2. The only losses suffered were against Conway Springs and Andale which were both away games. The team participated in the Andale tournament, finishing in second place. Kathy Walden commented, "We would have liked to have gone undefeated, but the season was a lot of fun anyway."

Team Needs More Support

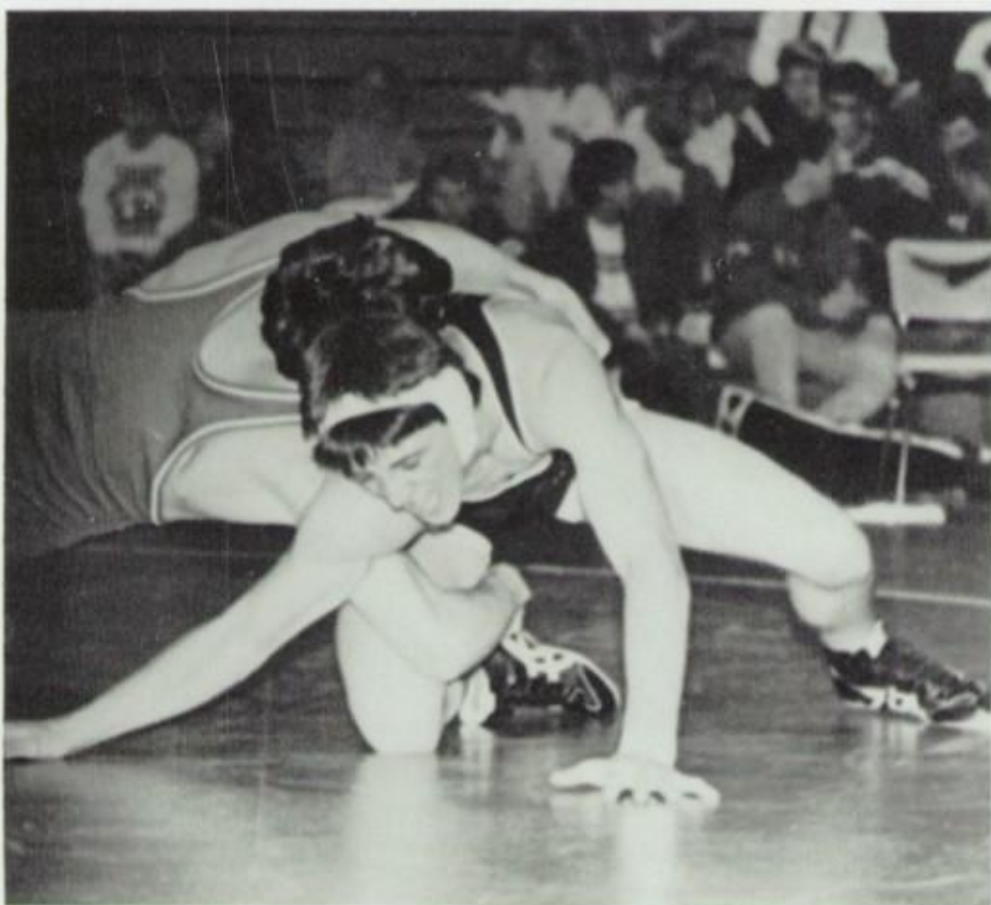

Wrestling is an excellent sport. It deserves the same recognition as any other athletic competition. As cheerleader Tracy Wingert put it, "It's an exciting sport if you watch it and know what's going on. The meets are a lot of fun, especially State. I would have gone to all of them whether I was cheering or not."

The team had a poor year in dual competition, but fared much better at the tournaments. The Owls placed second at the Hesston tournament, third at Maize, and fourth at Goddard and Halstead. The team did exceptionally well at Regionals where they took second place.

Five wrestlers qualified for the State tournament. They were Senior Darby Brown and Sophomores Ron Turley, Andy Zoglman, Bobby Lange, and Pat Barton. Ron Turley earned a third place ranking at the competition.

Since four out of the five state qualifiers were underclassmen the team was left with a promising future. Let's all show some spirit and our support during future wrestling seasons.

Andy Zoglman struggles to gain control of his opponent. Bobby Lange concentrates on the match about to begin.

Girl's Track

The girl's track team had a very successful season. The girls worked very hard all season, and even harder once they made state. But all the hard work and long hours of practice paid off. Stephanie Mies will have good memories of her last year of track, as she came in fourth in the 110 hurdles and first in the 330 hurdles. Kathy Walden also qualified for hurdles. Stacia Eilerts came in sixth in discus. With all this success this year, who knows what next year will bring.

Miles of dedication were made worthwhile as the 4 x 800 relay team made it to State with the help of a very dedicated and experienced coach, Father Ken. The team may have been small in number but big in heart, and each member strived for his own personal goals as well as the team goals.

Brad Elpers broke two freshman records, in the 330 intermediate hurdles and in the 220 yard dash. Jeff Charbonneau broke the freshman record in the 880 yard dash. Rod Thimesch did his personal best by placing third in the 110 high hurdles at State.

The students had another prosperous year on the fields and courts. The Garden Plain athletic tradition was as solid as ever in both effort and spirit. This past fall season the volleyball squad won a league and Sub-State championship and participated in the State tournament in Topeka. A young football team surpassed everyone's expectations and finished the football season with a winning season. The cross country squad had two runners finish in the top 25 at the state meet at Augusta.

As the weather got cold, the Owls stayed hot. Both basketball teams were crowned league champions in the Central Plains League. The boys were undefeated through the league. The girls went on to win a sub-state tournament and played at the 2A State Basketball Tournament. Our wrestling squad had another fine season. There were many individual championships at tournaments and the grapplers finished very well in most of the tournaments. There were 6 boys that earned their way to the state tournament at Hays. They were one of the most competitive teams from this area of the state.

In the spring the girls track team won four of five invitational track meets. There were many fine individual performances. The boys program was turning the corner and became very competitive. They placed very high in some invitationals already and the young group made great strides with every meet.

The students who put on the black and gold during the year competed well and served the school and community with great pride.

Rod Thimesch, Jason Becker, and James Koester enjoy (?) math class.

Slaving over a hot computer, Paul Meyer displays his anxious look.

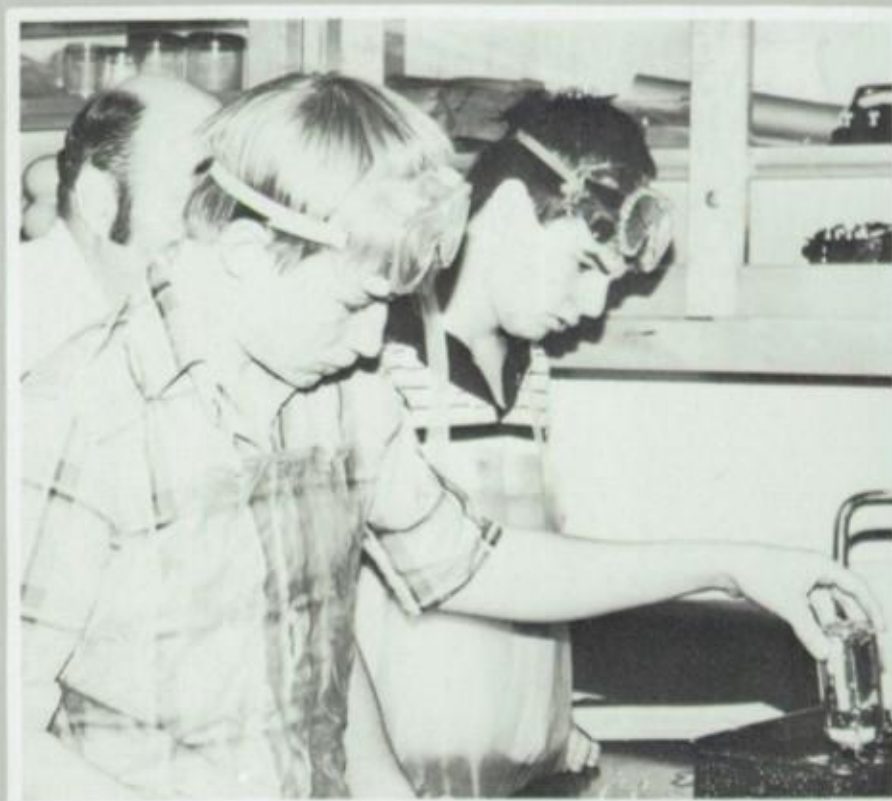

Michelle Lix and Erica Teter try to create the perfect male.

Caught in the act of working, Mr. Dugan looks so innocent.

Doug Rader wonders why we even have computers!

Mr. Kampe observes as Michael Mies and Kirk Leis blow water bubbles.

MATH

Math—who needs it? Everyone has asked this question at one time or another, but students seldom realize that math is an important part of their lives. "You use General Math all the time," Mr. Lix said. "Everyone needs it." Basic math skills are needed for every career, and more complex math skills are needed for jobs such as medicine, engineering, chemistry, and computer science. Even if a graduate goes to work right after high school, math is still needed for filling out income tax form, when buying insurance, and even when buying groceries!

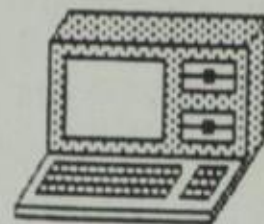

Mr. Lix confuses Vicki Mourning and Sarah Becker with his math ability!

Mrs. Harris helps Shelly Seidl take a "byte" out of an assignment.

COMPUTERS

Imagine being rejected by a college because you don't have your own personal computer. This is becoming common in Eastern colleges. Even though Kansas Universities have not yet made this a requirement, computers are becoming a necessity to everyone. As Mrs. Harris, computer teacher, explained, "One day using a computer will be as common as driving a car. You won't be able to get anywhere without it." In the past years class offerings in computers have rapidly expanded. The school now offers basic programming, word processing, and advanced programming. With all this computer education, G.P. graduates may become young computer experts.

Rod Mertens is seriously thinking about learning something from Mr. Kampe.

SCIENCE

As everyone knows, some classes are taken because they have to be, and some are taken because students find them interesting. Science is one class that combines both required knowledge and much interest. Both science teachers, Mr. Baker and Mr. Kampe, agree that science is important, no matter what field a student might want to go into. Mr. Baker also said, "Our students are always very interested in our biology section or genetics. Students learn about their physical appearance." So next time you're sitting in physical science, or biology, listening to Mr. Kampe lecture, just remember, "science is interesting!"

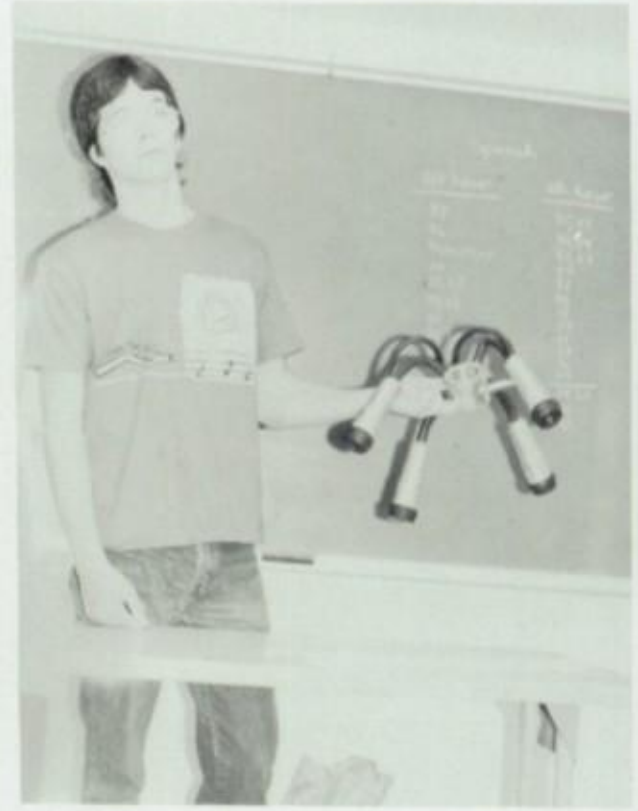

English, Speech

Mrs. Papke dreams of being anywhere else but here.

Sarah Fisher tells about her experiences on the railroad tracks.

Does anyone remember what this is? I forgot.

Twenty-one students walked into the room, dazed and unalert. They had crammed nearly eighteen weeks of studying into one night for the semester test. Suddenly, like a clash of thunder, Mrs. Papke announced, "There will be no test given. The copy machine has broken down." In one loud bang twenty-one students collapsed on their desks, and Valessa Drum bolted upright as someone slammed their books down beside her. "Oh, no! It was only a dream," she thought.

Occasionally, dreams do come true, but most of the time, everything runs on schedule in speech, English, and other required classes. Most students don't realize it, but these classes are very important now, as well as later in life. Plus, these required courses may play an important part in helping them to realize their dreams of becoming doctors, teachers, lawyers, or whatever professions they choose.

When sitting through a lecture about great writers, graduation and getting a job may seem far away. Of course, one can always day dream to help pass the time ...

Miss Houle seems to be talking to herself.

Amy Jaax wonders what's so funny about someone taking a picture.

Business

There's no accounting for people's actions in this class.

You've got to be kidding me?!

Tom Vestering works vigorously to complete his accounting assignment.

"Are y'all ready to take a timed writing?" asked Mrs. LaBrue.

"No."

"Do we hafta take another timed writing?"

"My typewriter isn't working."

"This is for the birds!"

"Mrs. LaBruuuuuuuuu!!!"

In her nearly twenty years of teaching, Dixie LaBrue has heard all kinds of excuses at the beginning of the hour in her business classes. Yet almost every high school student either has had, or will have, some form of business education. Though they are not required courses, most students are finding that they need some knowledge of typing, computers, and accounting, no matter what career they have in mind.

Chris Helten wonders if he'll ever learn the keys.

Kim Adams impersonating a legal secretary.

Home-Economics/Shop

Let's get fired up?

Valuable hours of time, expertise, and genuine interest are offered by Mrs. Barbara Ast, Home-Ec. teacher, and Mr. Dwayne Puetz, Shop teacher. The students of Garden Plain High School enjoy a break from the pressures of a stuffy classroom, to the excitement and interest of being able to work with their hands as well as their minds. In Home-Economics students learn how to lay out a pattern, sew, cook, and plan a meal. While Shop students concentrate on arch and gas welding, drafting, and wood-working.

Rod Thimesch, finally completing his cedar chest.

Mrs. Ast demonstrates the art of cooking.

What is really in that can, Shannon?

I'm not going to eat that!

Mrs. Herl shows the girls how it's done.

Putting together a yearbook isn't easy, it requires a lot of hard work and dedication. Many students on the staff have devoted much of their free time to making the best yearbook possible.

Putting our yearbook together had its share of good times and bad. The good times included meeting our deadlines, working together with people, and sharing each other's ideas. Some bad times were when relationships between staff members became a little strained. These were the times when pulling together was a key factor in completing the book.

Joel tries to impress us with his yearbook ability.

As another year ends so begins a new life for another group of Seniors. As we reflect back upon the day we first walked through the doors of GPHS we suddenly realize how much we've changed through the years. We have learned a lot more than just what's in the textbooks. Friends have come in and out of our lives. Our once best friends have become just faces that pass us in the halls, while others have filled their places. No matter what, we have established relationships with our fellow students as well as faculty and staff members that we will cherish in our memories forever.

Darian (the dork)

Hello! your a terrific dork! (Just kidding) Your ok! Well keep these next two years fun!
With you and Marcha and all of them on don't forget Bret! Well have fun. Your friend,
Jena Parnik
92#1

Darian!
Well, what do you say?
Wasn't one was known you for soooooo long! Frankly based with you! Just kidding around. I could never get used with you around, you are the life of the party, the troubadour, the rebel, the leader-of-the-back. That's just saying you are cool-movie.
Well, it's this long enough. Well, join the band one first time. I hope you'll stay not away for ever
- and thank you for being here for me. I know it took a lot to get you with me, but that's in the past. Let's make some better memories without bubble gum, earings, stay cool about these years!
Darian, 92#1

Darian, (Little Bro')

Well "Dagwood, What do I say to such a close and a special friend? We have had so many great times together! I remember when we were little kids and Mom, Dianne, and your mom varnished your house, we played tag and we went swimming, (we always had to team up together to beat everyone else.) Even all the way back then I guess you could say we were pretty close! Or do you remember Eric's birthday parties when we would play three-wheeler hide-n-seek, we always won and it would piss him off. It's no wonder that we are such great friends now! But ever since we've started working together at "Slambinos" we've become even closer. You've been there for me whenever I needed a friend to lean on or when I needed someone to make me smile! Remember that if you ever need a friend to talk to I will always be here for ya'! This is my last year at good ol' G.P.H.S. so we're gonna' have to live it up and make it a great year! I just hope that we can make as many great memories this year as we did last year! You, me, and Marsha are just inseperable!!! Well, I guess I better stop writing now, even though there are a million more things I'd like to say! Keep in touch after I go off to college. I'm gonna' miss you alot! Good Luck in whatever you do in life, you've got the personality to take you far! Take care and God Bless! Keep Smilin'!

Darrian,

Well! We've had fun last 2 years. Let's have more. You're one hell of a guy! Stay the same. One of these days you'll find your women! Just wait and it'll happen.
Have fun!

Davian,
I can remember last year in Consumer Math,
Did we give Mr. Dalt of crap or what. We were really good friend
last year I could talk to you about everything.
Thanks for all the good advice you gave me about food and alcohol things. You're one of the greatest guys out of the whole class. Even we could have a class together so I could all food all my problems.
You're a cute guy that has a lot going for himself. I hope all your dreams and future goals are reached. You make the best out of your high school years we'll have to get together and make some memories. After we get out of this wonderful place I gonna miss you so much you better keep

Darian,

What can I say to a hell of a guy! I know we've been through some fun times. So let's make more ones in the future. Let's keep in touch, cause I sure don't want to loose a good friend! I will never forget the times when we spent hours on that speech contest. Preparing for it and everything! And the times when we went down on Douglas with Marsha, the way she drove, I thought for sure we were going to die!!! But we didn't. (Thank God!) I could mention lots of memories but it would take up 5 pages or more!! But I'm sure you remember them, cause I sure do!!! Good luck next year and next year after that and so on. I sure will miss you. Please, let's keep in touch!!

Darian,
you a really neat guy who seems to be a lot of fun to be around.
This is my last year so hopefully will be able to go out & party sometime!
I don't know you that well, but I hope to get to know you better
this year 'cause what I do know of you you are really cool! Well, God buck in the future and keep on taking those pictures.

I WANT A

NOW!

Barban - just think. Next year I won't be around at all. You know you. Then Lisa will do it! She'll keep you busy (you know pestering you ^{he}) anyway. I'm really going to miss you, more than you know. The time we've spent together, alone or with others, are unforgettable. I will always treasure the beautiful memories we've made. I wish you the best of luck all your life. I know you'll get what you want out of life, because you have determination! You also have talent. I know someday you'll have a mansion, and a Mercedes, and everything else you're dreaming of. No matter how bad things get, always remember "tomorrow is another day." I won't write anything in here to embarrass you, but you already know how I feel. Stay out of trouble next year! ^{he} _{man}

Yours truly,

a Bob ^{or}
